2. Will dedicated resource in the form of paid staff be useful to 'pump prime' co-production, and will volunteer development be part of this process?
3. How can short-term, responsive engagement create longer-term opportunities for coproduction?
4. Can short-term funding opportunities provide long-term benefits?
5. How can ongoing demand for services and coproduction be evidenced?
6. Can coproduction, and coproduction activities specifically, inform policy landscapes?
